

Coventry Building Society's Young Writer of the Year competition 2024

Top tips and entry form

We want your imagination to run wild. And with prizes to be won*, we want you to go BIG with your idea, so let's get creative. Start your story with this sentence:

'The clock struck midnight, it was the start of a new year and...'

Using only the lines on the entry form, we want you to make up a story. Your teacher will share our writing tips, but remember to:

- add your name, school, year group and class name to your entry
- include a title
- use your best handwriting (if it is being handwritten)
- use a blank piece of A4 paper (with your name, school, year group and class name on it too) if you're drawing a picture to go with your story.

To enter the competition, your story must start with the sentence 'The clock struck midnight, it was the start of a new year and...'
and it needs to be given to your teacher by Friday 26 January 2024.

With thanks to: Coventry Building Society, Explore Learning, Ann Evans, Aaron Ashmore and Jacqui Turner.
